

IMMIGRATION RESET SOLUTION

Europeans (mostly Caucasian), with the help of bankers, politicians, and the military, stole North America, South America, Central America, parts of the Middle East, Asia, and Africa from indigenous people around the world through systematic policies of cultural and economic genocide. In European history books these events were lovingly referred to as “The Industrial Revolution.” In contrast, indigenous people see Europeans as a colonizing occupation army.

So, the simple solution to the so-called immigration crisis is to do a simple reset, like we do on our computers, and everyone just immigrates back to the land of their origin. This would immediately give everything back to the Native/indigenous people worldwide ... problem solved. I wonder how many countries of origin would be open to this simple solution and welcome us back into the fold.

European arrogance and greed regarding the robbery of native land/resources was unprecedented and explains why many indigenous people in the world today are beginning to assert their sovereignty by reclaiming their natural resources and finally making the U.S. and European countries pay for their atrocities and plunder of indigenous cultures around the world.

Of course, the real culprits are the Bankers who financed the genocide of millions of indigenous people, and continue to do so through various methods and means. However, let's not forget the underlying cause of so-called immigration problems today, i.e., consumer supply and demand for cheap labor to produce the products and services offered by these same colonizers.

In other words, there wouldn't be so-called illegal immigrants/workers in the U.S. and in other countries who complain about the borders not being secure if there wasn't a demand for cheap/slave labor to help multi-national corporations and others increase their profits and exploitation of indigenous people.

European colonizers and others who share their world view are addicted to drugs, greed, violence, and control. As a result of their troublesome nature and genocidal policies, these same European nations and their descendants are now complaining about an unsustainable economic/social system they created. In short, they created the Frankenstein monster and now they want to disown the monster and make believe that they weren't the mad scientists that created this monster in the first place. In simple terms, the so-called immigration problem is just indigenous people taking back the land and the resources that were violently stolen from them.

What goes around, comes around ... just like Rome, Greece, and Babylon. This so-called immigration crisis in the U.S. and within other countries has been put in motion by European colonialists, bankers, and governments that have not yet learned how to share the wealth and have compassion for other people less fortunate than themselves. It's time for a RESET!
